Betty Blythe.

The gorgeous Queen of Sheba who has made so many hearts skip a beat or two has not always been the cold, haughty beauty she appears to be in that picture. Before becoming a motion picture star the lovely Betty Blythe studied for the concert stage. Some of her studying she did abroad, and when she returned to New York the best she was able to do was to get a position in a church at the large salary of $40 a month. Nothing very cold and haughty or royal about that!

"I had to support myself," she explained, "and $40, you may imagine, did not go very far. So I took a vaudeville engagement. Shortly after that the Vitaphone company made me an offer. 'I became Guy Empey's leading woman at $60 a week, not a very large salary for a film actress, but considerably more comfortable than $40 a month. After doing two pictures I appeared in 'Over the Top.' It was in that I made my first hit. Then I timidly asked for a raise and got $85 a week."

"I felt so rich I went and bought myself a grand piano on the installment plan. Now I am taking the first rest I have had in five years."

Such is the rise of a regal Queen of Sheba from a church choir singer.

News From Abroad.

Francesca Bertini, the famous Italian screen artist, was married at Naples recently to Paul Cartier, a wealthy man living in Switzerland. She has abandoned her profession as an actress after making a fortune estimated at $5,000,000.

Neapolitans say that they remember when she was a laundress' assistant. Germany has again beaten her film "crowd" record. Only 4,000 supers checked Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn as they entered the canvas Westminster abbey at Tempehlo, last autumn, when "Deception" was being filmed. Recently 5,000 engaged in a mimic combat before the camera in picturesque surroundings 12 or 15 miles up the Spree from Berlin. "Pharaoh's Wife" is the name of the picture. It will probably beat the record in other respects besides the number of performers. Before it appears on the screen it will have involved an outlay of 15,000,000 marks. Eight thousand costumes have been specially made for its performers.

Harry's Next.

As soon as Harry Myers completes his role of Gilly, the crook, in "Turn to the Right," he is expected to start work in a series of independent productions in which he will be starred. The stories will be by famous authors and Myers will play his inimitable "Yankee" comedy role.

The Beloved Villain.

Lowell Sherman, who made such a hit as the villain in "Way Down East," and later played in "Molly O." is much in demand by various companies. He has recently been added to the cast of "Grand Larceny," the Albert Payson Terhune story which Goldwyn is producing. The cast for the picture now includes Elliott Dexter, Claire Windsor, Tom Gallery, Roy Atwell, Richard Tucker and Lowell Sherman, which sounds interesting and promising.

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH FRECKLES AND WHITEN SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan bleach, and complexion whitener.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes bleach out and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. (Adv.)

Recipes for a Day.
Green Peppers Stuffed with Chicken Liver Foremeat.—When cooking the fowl for Sunday's dinner simmer the liver and heart in sufficient water to cover, adding a bit of chopped parsley. When tender and the liquor is almost absorbed chop the meat fine and set with the liquor in the ice box. Parboil three peppers that have been cut in halves and from which the seeds and membranes have been removed for ten minutes in boiling water, then drain. Mix with the chopped liver an equal quantity of grated bread crumbs and add two tablespoons of melted butter, the liquor, two slices of minced fried bacon, salt and poultry seasoning to taste, and half a teaspoon of chicken bouillon (the filling should be rather moist). Pack into the prepared peppers, brush over with melted butter and bake in a rather quick oven, until the peppers are tender and the filling slightly browned on top.

Whole Tomato Fruit Salad.—This is a very unusual salad and particularly good. Remove the stem ends from four tomatoes, peel and remove the hard centers. Mix together half a cup of finely diced canned pineapple, an equal quantity of chopped nut meats and a small diced banana. Moisten the filling with boiled dressing, fill into the tomatoes and chill on the ice. Serve each on a bed of crisp lettuce.

Tomato Soup.—Turn a one-quarter can of tomatoes into a saucepan and add a sliced onion, celery tops, parsley, a carrot and a bay leaf. Add a cup of water and stew gently until the goodness is all out of the flavoring agents. Season, adding a little sugar, then put in an ounce of gelatin, which has been dissolved in warm water, bring to a boiling point, then strain. Put a little chopped boiled egg white in the tomato soup, then turn in the liquid and set to harden. Before serving break up the surface of each cup of soup with a silver fork.

Helpful Suggestions.
When Embroidering.—When embroidering keep a little bit of sandpaper handy to rub the fingers with occasionally to prevent the silk sticking to them.
Mending Tablecloths.—The mending place in a tablecloth will hardly be noticed if the cloth is placed on an embroidered hoop and darned with mercerized cotton.

Heating the Raisins.—To keep the raisins in a cake from sinking to the bottom set them in the oven in a shallow pan and allow them to plump up and become heated through before adding to the batter. Then stir them in lightly the last thing.

Pears in the Pod.—Many housewives think pears have a far better flavor when cooked in the pod. They should of course, be thoroughly washed first. The pods will rise to the surface and can be skimmed out when the pears are done.

Grandmother Says:

When Marmalade or jelly is ready for the glasses it will be found a very convenient plan to stand the glasses in granite muffin pans near the kettle containing the fruit. Each glass rests in a separate enclosure, so that if any fruit is spilled it is caught and does not smear the others. Also they are so easily lifted and set aside to cool in these receptacles without disturbing.

In Making Waldorf Salad or any salad with apples, after paring and quartering the apples cut them into narrow strips about one-quarter inch each way. It makes the salad look much more attractive.

Desserts.

Fruit Sponge Drops.—Cook two cups grated pineapple and one cup sugar until thick and set aside to cool. Soak one tablespoon any granulated gelatin in one-quarter cup cold water ten minutes, and let stand over boiling water until dissolved. When cold, add to one cup stiffly whipped cream and beat into the pineapple. Cut off the top of individual sponge or cup cakes, hollow out the center and fill with above paste. Replace top of cake and garnish with marshmallow or whipped cream and pistachio nuts. If desired any fresh or canned fruit may be used in place of the pineapple for making the paste.

Maple Sponge.—Soak two tablespoons granulated gelatin in one and one-half cups cold water ten minutes. Put two cups cups brown or maple sugar on one-half cup hot water in a sauce pan, bring to the boiling point and let boil ten minutes. Pour syrup gradually on soaked gelatin. Cool, and when nearly set, add whites of two eggs, beaten until stiff, and one cup of chopped nut meats. Turn into mold first dipped in cold water and chill. Serve with a custard made from the yolks of the eggs, sugar and a few grains of salt, milk and flavoring.

Mangoes.—A fruit believed to be a native of southern Asia, but is now grown in nearly all sub-tropical countries. In addition to use as a fresh fruit, mango forms the basis of many chutneys of East Indian type and also is canned and otherwise preserved.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl past eighteen and am old for my age. Most girls of my age seem so foolish that I am rather lonely at times. At a carnival or home coming on the street I seem very popular with the young folk and have a lot of chances to get acquainted with young men.

Do you think it proper to let a young man walk with me to get acquainted, never having met before? I have turned many of them down and am sorry afterward. I find out they are respected and just want to have a good time. Do you think it all right if I have another girl with me? We would both act sensible and give him no cause for misbehavior.

Many of the girls do this and think it O. K., even letting the young men take them home, which I wouldn't think of. LONELY.

It is not all right to get acquainted with young men on the street. You should be properly introduced. The man who tries to make an acquaintance in that way is not respectable, regardless of what he is "considered." Besides, he would not respect you and would talk about you to other young men.

There is nothing so much to be desired as respect, and respect must be earned. If you are interesting and charming in your way of acting you will not want for friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen and I am considered by many a beauty. I seem to be very popular with the fellows. There is a fellow ten years my senior who seems to be very much in love with me, but circumstances are such that he cannot marry me now, nor do I wish to get married yet. Of course, I love this fellow very much, but I dislike his family. Should I marry him or not? Kindly advise me. M. L.

You should not marry the young man feeling as you do about his family. They are his people and if you love the man you will learn to care for the members of his family because he loves them. Every one has lovable qualities and if you look for them you will find them. Probably you are no more attractive to the family than they are to you. The whole trouble results from jealousy and misunderstanding.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl very young and I am in love with a young man, but I don't think he cares much for me. But he has asked me if I would marry him. I told him I would, but mother does not know I go with him, because she stopped our going together a while ago. Shall I go with him or not? I have worried about this man a good many times. At last I have decided it is best not to go with him because

I believe he loves some other girl and doesn't care anything for me. A good many boys try to go with me but I hardly ever go with them because it makes him angry. Please give me your advice. LITTLE GIRL.

Since your mother wants you to give up the young man and you are convinced that he does not care for you as he should, give him up. You will be happier in the end if you go with other young men for a while and make your choice of a husband when you are older.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband likes dogs and I do not because they have to be fed and cause work. Last Saturday night he brought home a Boston terrier which he had bought. I was angry to say the least to think he would put money into a dog when things were so tight. I told him that he would have to get another dog for the dog. Now he says that when the dog leaves he leaves too, and he refuses to get rid of it. I know I could have the dog poisoned, but I am afraid my husband would suspect me. He is a very set man and I would be afraid of the consequences.

Kindly advise me of a safe way to get rid of the dog. BOB.

Since the dog means so much to your husband let him have it. He will probably be willing to feed the animal and bathe it if you are willing to let him keep it. I believe you should sacrifice your own interests in this matter in order to give your husband a pleasure which will mean much to him. Your married life will be happier if both you and your husband are ready to make sacrifices to please each other. When he sees that you want him to have his way, he will be more ready to give you your way in other things.

"I'm Done": Your mother is old enough to choose her own path in life. Naturally you would not approve of her conduct, but nevertheless you will have to let her go her way since she is determined. Pay no attention to what she says about your call upon your step-father. You know that your motive was all right, and should not worry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me how I can restore my hair to its natural color? I am a peroxide blonde. JOYCE.

Your hair cannot be restored to its natural color by any process. One of the penalties of dying hair is the long period of ugliness and many colors which the hair goes through before the normal shade is reached. Brush it thoroughly several times a day and keep the scalp in good condition.
